The aim of the Leeds Beckett Repository is to provide open access to our research, as required by funder policies and permitted by publishers and copyright law.

The Leeds Beckett repository holds a wide range of publications, each of which has been checked for copyright and the relevant embargo period has been applied by the Research Services team.

We operate on a standard take-down policy. If you are the author or publisher of an output and you would like it removed from the repository, please contact us and we will investigate on a case-by-case basis.

Each thesis in the repository has been cleared where necessary by the author for third party copyright. If you would like a thesis to be removed from the repository or believe there is an issue with copyright, please contact us on openaccess@leedsbeckett.ac.uk and we will investigate on a case-by-case basis.

“I feel like this will be life changing for me. Because you can literally just click and it is there. The amount of times I literally have had to go into different tabs to get things, but it is all in one place which is really nice.”

Alternative formats - a student perspective

Proactive service, help available, flexible approach

Would you like to take part in some alternative formats research?

A librarian at the University of Bradford is carrying out research into alternative formats and the impact on student's independent learning. You would be asked to take part in an interview. If you would like to be involved please email libraryalfformats@leedsbeckett.ac.uk.

Accessing your reading

You will access all of your recommended reading through the online reading list system. This is the same system which all students use, however the Library have made a copy of the reading lists for your modules specifically for you. These lists will have links to books in electronic formats which other students are not entitled to.

You will receive an email from LibraryAlF Formats with a link to your Alternative Formats Reading list for each module you are studying. Emails will be sent to your student email account. If you receive an email for a module you are not studying, or
